DANIELSON AND PUTNAM NEWS

DANIELSON

The Mechanic street office of Young Bros. Co., was burglarized some time during Tuesday night. It was reported to Chief John McFarland Wednesday morning. Nothing of value is missing from the office, it was stated there Tuesday afternoon, but the burglar made a mess of the place, throwing papers from a desk about the floor, which was also spattered with blood, evidently from a cut that the burglar received when he broke out the glass of the window through which he entered. The office typewriter was dashed from its usual place to the floor and broken.

The telephone was also knocked off the desk and fell to the floor and it is hoped through this means to fix the time when the break was made, as the removing of the receiver from the hook of the telephone would automatically illuminate a bulb on the switchboard at the central office of the telephone company.

A bundle of shingles was used by the burglar to get in through the window. Blood from his wound showed on these shingles and also on other shingles in the lot from which he selected a bundle. Blood was also on the office floor and on a bag enclosing cookies, which the burglar inspected, but did not eat. The safe, which was in another room of the office building was not tampered with. The loss from the break, excepting the damage to the typewriter, was practically nothing.

Coroner Arthur G. Bill, who has been investigating relative to the history and activities of Thomas McLaughlin, whose body was found under a pine tree in the woods at Wauregan has learned that the man had been working in the Quinebaug mill here during the late summer and it is possible that this was his last place of employment. From a member of the office force of the Wauregan company Mr. Bill also obtained other information that would seem to establish that McLaughlin's home is in or near Utica, N. Y., and that he has a wife living in that vicinity and also children who are grown up and married.

Local results were particularly pleasing to the party leadership and rank and file, for the triumph was absolutely complete. The republican majority here was unprecedented and clearly established for all that which has been evident to members of the board of selectmen of the town, and Hector Duver, who has previously represented Putnam in the legislature, each were given very strong support and won out by his margins.

Every candidate on the republican ticket received a splendid showing. Judge Sablin S. Russell, for judge of probate, having the nomination of both parties, topped the list with nearly 1900 votes.

Killingly turned in a splendid majority, too, for State Senator Archibald Macdonald, of Putnam heading the district in its support of him, while Representative of the district of Danielson and Walter E. Russell of Attawaugan came through with record majorities.

Both of Killingly's newly elected representatives are natives of Danielson. Senator Darbie was born here Dec. 21, 1882, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Darbie. All of his life has been spent here and his education obtained in Danielson's schools. He is one of the well known members of the Windham county bar and enjoys the friendship of thousands of eastern Connecticut people. Attorney Darbie is a member of the local Masonic organizations, of Columbian commandery and the Scottish Rite bodies with headquarters at Norwich, of the Spina Temple of the Holy Shrine, of Putnam lodge of Elks and other social and fraternal organizations.

He has been chairman of the republican town committee since 1914, has served the town as tax collector and as a member of the board of selectmen and is counsel for the town of Killingly.

Mr. Russell was born in Danielson 57 years ago. At the age of four years he left here with his parents, who removed to Thompson, and lived in that town until he was sixteen years of age, going west then for two years. Returning he entered the employ of the Attawaugan company as a member of its store forces and has been with the concern for the past 37 years, serving at the Ballville store and at the Attawaugan store, where he has been the manager for a long time. Mr. Russell through his honest and earnest service has deserved the confidence that is placed in him and he stands high in the estimation of his fellow citizens. Mr. Russell has served the town as a selectman for a period of five years, but has had no other public life. He is a member of Moriah lodge of Masons.

The directors of the Killingly trust company at their meeting declared regular semi-annual dividend to stockholders and declared a special dividend to its savings depositors, increasing the rate to 4-1-2 per cent. for the previous six months period. All banks have been forced to raise the rate of interest on increased money rates since the war period. They have been able to invest their funds at an increased rate, thus giving them an increased return and it is in line with the policy of the company to divide this increase in earnings with the depositors who have made it possible for them to take advantage of the increase in interest rates. By declaring an extra dividend to its savings depositors the Killingly Trust Company puts itself on record as favoring depositors, who will appreciate it as such in their action.

The funeral of Miss Corinne Lafreniere was held from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lafreniere, in Plainfield, with services at St. John's church in that place at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. Rev. P. Morrissey being celebrant. The high mass of requiem. Burial was in the Sacred Heart cemetery at Attawaugan. The bearers were Albert Lafreniere, Leo Gordon, John Gordon, Leo Bernier, Arthur Jarvis, Fred Marrotte. The honorary bearers were Frelan Lafreniere, Pamela Jarvis, Lillian Deschamps, and Rose Deschamps. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements. That the women of Killingly were interested in their chance to vote was indicated by the fact that 418 out of a total of 488 registered in the town cast their ballots in Tuesday's election.

PUTNAM

Antonio Pusipiccate, claiming New Haven as his home, was being held Wednesday for state prohibition enforcement officials at the police station here. Pusipiccate was picked up in Pomfret by Captain Robert Hurley of the state police and State Officer Howard E. Elliott while Pusipiccate was guarding a waiting touring car in which he is suspected to have engaged in rum running between New Haven and here. The car was a 1917 touring car and was found with a quart of wine in it.

Search of Pusipiccate's person at the police station here revealed that he was carrying $1135 in cash. He told conflicting stories and among other things said that he was on his way to Providence after a load of cheese when the accident happened. This was manifestly true, as his car was heading for Providence when it was wrecked. The car was enclosed with curtains and the rear seat cushion had been removed.

The machine was wrecked about 4 a. m. in a crash which shattered the windows and the car was thrown into the ditch. The later activities of the men who were in the car in seeking to get their smashed machine repaired attracted attention to them as suspicious characters and the state police department at Hartford was notified. By the time Captain Hurley and Officer Elliott reached Pomfret Pusipiccate's two companions had fled and a new wheel hereabouts, had gone on to New Haven after another, so they escaped arrest.

Pusipiccate is being held for investigation and questioning on the theory that he was enroute home after having delivered a load of whiskey in Providence. He explained to the officers that the liquor found in the car was purchased by him in Providence, for which city he also claimed he was bound.

There was great, practically unlimited joy in the ranks of the republicans of this city and all the surrounding country Wednesday. No more positive victory after eight years of their control at Washington had been hailed with unusual acclaim by the republicans of this city.

There was not a vestige of democratic triumph in any of the territory hereabouts, so the victory of the republicans was complete. State Treasurer G. Harold Gilpatrick of this city received many congratulations from his home town folks as well as from different sections of the state. Archibald Macdonald, re-elected state senator, was also felicitated upon the magnitude of his victory, which will make him a member of the Connecticut senate for a third term.

The victory of the local republican candidates for representative was also complete. Luther M. Keith, who is a member of the board of selectmen of the town, and Hector Duver, who has previously represented Putnam in the legislature, each were given very strong support and won out by his margins.

As had been predicted in the column, the talk about the women of the republican party of this city and town opposing Grandee at the polls was mostly bunk and was not reflected in the actual returns. The returns prove this, as they did in other towns hereabouts.

Democrats of this city had little to say Wednesday as they were so completely overwhelmed that little room for discussion remained. It is an open secret, however, that many democrats were disappointed with the republican leadership in evading the prohibition issue, which was a matter of fact far overshadowed the issue of national question in the minds of voters who were not so easily won over by the republican leaders.

Both of the republican candidates for representative of the S. N. E. T. company in eastern Connecticut divisions met here in an employers' conference, Wednesday afternoon.

Probably the worst mistake a man can make is to correct the mistakes of his friends.

graduation until 1889 he successfully conducted a drug store and practiced medicine at North Vassboro, Maine, and was then obliged to give up the practice of medicine on account of ill health. When twenty-eight years of age he was W. M. of Vassboro's Lodge No. 54, F. & A. M.

For three years in the early nineties he was proprietor of a drug store in Putnam when he retired from active business. He was one time director in and president of the Putnam Light and Power Co. Dr. Libby represented the town of Putnam in the Connecticut legislature in the year 1902, serving on two committees, appropriations and legislative expenses, chairman of the latter. Dr. Libby was a man of great intellect and sound business judgment.

He devoted his entire time to work during the whole period of his world, serving on the legal advisory board, secretary of the medical advisory board, and as chairman of the Putnam chapter of the Red Cross.

His widow, Anna Bertha Libby, of this city, and two sons, Arthur F. Libby, a lawyer of Norwich, Conn., and J. Ralph Libby, assistant professor of Economics, at the University of Vermont, survive.

A big crowd braved the heavy gale and sweeping rainstorm from the south to watch the election returns in Union street Tuesday evening. All remained there until the wire service was unexpectedly cut off at 10:50.

Frank Wicazarek, 54, died at the Day Kimball hospital following a surgical operation. The body was taken in charge by a local undertaker. Mr. Wicazarek lived near the Massachusetts line in the town of Thompson.

Round for Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Everett E. Brown of Pomfret got away in their motor car Wednesday morning. The mills of the Groesvenordale company closed Wednesday night for the remainder of the week, as has been the policy for two years past.

John P. DeAvilla, an assistant superintendent of the Pinkerton detective agency, was a visitor in Putnam Wednesday.

The sun had barely crept up over the hills east of the city on Wednesday morning when there was talk about "the next postmaster," who will be a republican. It is understood that there already are candidates for the appointment, which will not be made until well along in President-elect Harding's term of office, however.

Mrs. Charles T. Thayer and son, Aylward, were visitors with relatives in Danielson Wednesday.

It was stated here Wednesday morning that the election cases in the town of Pomfret are rapidly cleared up and that no new cases have been reported. The health situation here also was reported improved and it was said that many children have recovered or are recovering from measles.

There were few election bets to be paid here Wednesday. So certain has Seneca for Harding's election been reported, past that little money could be obtained for posting against him.

George L. Padgett, who has been confined to his home by illness, is again able to be on duty at his office.

Work being done by S. N. E. T. forces in Main street has been completed and the street pavement restored.

Representatives of different departments of the S. N. E. T. company in eastern Connecticut divisions met here in an employers' conference, Wednesday afternoon.

With republican representatives in congress leading by two to one in returns from 432 precincts, Idaho's entire congressional delegation probably will be republican.
